

UK

Dear,

Nigel Wright is the largest specialist European consumer industry recruiter and this year we're celebrating our first 25 years in business. We are committed to growing our market knowledge and continually improving our service. As such, we ensure our monthly e-updates always contain up to date industry analysis and market commentary.

Market overview

Incremental improvement in the European economy has certainly brought confidence back to the consumer industries. Growth is still slow however, and many businesses are remaining cautious about the future. Vigilance concerning employee retention is perceived as important, but we're also beginning to see an increase in recruitment across the categories, as companies show a new determined focus on hiring. As we move towards the year's end, we anticipate this trend to continue, as the European revival gathers pace.
