

As a specialist provider of recruitment services we know better than anyone the importance of getting hiring right. In 2014, as businesses have begun to consider increasing their workforces, we have been helping clients think about how best to attract the talent they need to help them grow. Factors such as employer branding, candidate assessment and incentives such as home working and flexible hours have once again come to the fore.

On the background of an improving global economy, Nigel Wright is now entering a new phase of growth as we seek to consolidate our leading position in established markets and move forward with new growth opportunities. Like most other companies, we are starting to hire again and with increasing opportunities to grow domestically and internationally, we are seeking the best talent to help us succeed.

At Nigel Wright we offer great careers along with management training and development programs, and opportunities to progress into senior leadership roles and travel and work in other countries. We welcome those who have previously worked in recruitment as well as those seeking to enter the sector. Having knowledge of recruitment or indeed a specific discipline and industry sector, gained through experience, is obviously attractive to us. But above all else, we seek talented and enthusiastic people capable of further strengthening our position as a world leading search and selection company, regardless of how many years and what type of experience they can bring to our company.

Nigel Wright employees are located in eight international offices including Newcastle as well as London, Copenhagen, Dusseldorf, Madrid, Oslo, Paris and Stockholm. The North East is a local market where our consultants work exclusively with locally based clients and represent locally based candidates. Nationally and internationally we are regarded as a leading specialist consumer industry recruiter and work with a wide variety of well known consumer brands in the UK and overseas.

Our culture is one that embraces a competitive spirit and encourages drive and determination, while operating to the highest levels of integrity and ethics. As a business we look to innovate; constantly pushing the boundaries and enabling our teams to successfully meet the needs of our customers. Providing a consultative and professional service to our clients is essential to our success, but it is our people who ultimately make the difference. Every day they bring passion, pride and expertise to our company. It's hard work, but in return we provide excitement, challenge and a rewarding career.

To grow our business and strengthen our position as a world leading specialist recruiter, we need to hire more high calibre consultants who are intelligent and hungry for success. To find out more about us and what attracted other high calibre people to join our team then please visit our website www.nigelwright.com Alternatively email our Group Talent Partner at nadine.hollingsworth@nigelwright.com to arrange an informal confidential chat.